"We're sure many students have nominations they're planning to make in the future," but the deadline is drawing near and we'd appreciate getting the applications as soon as possible.

THE AWARD is made by students to teachers of outstanding ability and usually the selection is made from among teachers who have given less than 15 years of service to the university.

Lee said, "Many of the professors at BYU would feel well repaid for classroom efforts if they could read what has been expressed by students who have made the nominations."

Southern Senators Fight To Amend 'Rights' Bill

WASHINGTON, April 7—(UPI)—Southern Senators staged a last-ditch fight today for a modification of the civil rights bill which even administration supporters conceded might have merit and speed passage of the measure.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern bloc, said the disputed section would "discriminate against white voters" because they could not register as late as some negroes.

RUSSELL CALLED the provision written into the bill by the House, a "monstrous" section which demands correction. He told newsmen he thought his pleas would "appeal to the sense of fairness of the Senate if they understood it."

The Senate scheduled a vote today on an amendment by Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) to eliminate the voting referee section of the bill. Ellender's proposal was expected to be defeated.

SENATE GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) said he would confer with Attorney General William P. Rogers about Russell's arguments. He said any modification "would take the steam out of the debate" and expedite final action on the bill.

Dirksen said he felt Russell's request was an "honest one" and not a "dilatatory tactic."

THE DISPUTED section would require a judge to issue an order authorizing a negro applicant to vote "provisionally" if his registration application had been filed 20 days or more before an election.

If the application was filed less than 20 days before an election, the judge could issue such an order at his discretion.

IN EITHER case, the provisional voters would be impounded pending a final decision on the application.

Russell and other Southerners said voters in all states must be registered at least 30 days in advance of an election to qualify to vote.

Y Destiny Fund Council Plans $1 Million Goal

Developments at a meeting of the Brigham Young University Destiny Fund National Advisory Council Tuesday included:

1. LAUNCHING of a new program to raise $1 million by asking 100 men each to give $1000 a year for 10 years.

2. A report that the Destiny Fund now has $2,353,000 in pledges and money.

3. A proposal to establish a chair in petroleum geology engineering at BYU in the name of Henry D. Moyle.

4. Donation to BYU of a section of land with rich oil prospects.

THE DESTINY FUND is a development program at BYU which was started in 1956 to raise auxiliary funds for the fast-growing university, to assist in research, construction, improvement of salaries, etc.

Director of the Destiny Fund operations is William Noble White, assistant to the president. The National Advisory Council is composed of more than 50 leaders of business and industry across the nation who are interested in the university.

Waite reported that donors in more than 160 states of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have been visited, a total of $2,353,000 has been raised in money and pledges, and $1 million is invested and drawing interest.

Ten Nominated for Professor Award

Ten professors have been nominated for the annual "Professor of the Year" award, according to studentbody president Rex Lee.

THE AWARD is made by students to teachers of outstanding ability and usually the selection is made from among teachers who have given less than 15 years of service to the university.

Lee said, "Many of the professors at BYU would feel well repaid for classroom efforts if they could read what has been expressed by students who have made the nominations."

In some cases the nomination has been made by entire classes. Judges, won't however, be influenced by the number of names on the applications.

"We're sure many students have nominations they're planning to make in the future," but the deadline is drawing near and we'd appreciate getting the applications as soon as possible.

Nominations may be made by any member of the studentbody, student department organizations and student government groups. An original selection committee will narrow the list of candidates to ten, and names of candidates will be checked with the Dean of Students.

A FINAL SELECTION committee composed of the Executive Council and Cabinet including about 21 members—will choose either one or two professors for the student award. Last year Dr. Stewart Grow and Dr. Reed Bradford were winners.

Criteria to be considered in the selection of the top professors will include the following: (1) Technical knowledge of subject and ability to impart this knowledge to others.

2. Capability to inspire students toward a greater interest in the subject matter.

3. Personal interest in student welfare, especially as this applies to the course.

4. PREPARATION FOR each class period and desire to improve teaching methods.

5. Appreciation and upholding of the spirit of the Honor System, relating gospel principles to subject where prudent.

6. Any other peculiar abilities and/or personal attributes which may be applicable in any particular situation.

Wake Up and Read

Americans are spending less and less time reading, according to recent surveys. This fact seems extremely unfortunate in view of the fact that today's working norms provide for more leisure time than ever before. Where is this time being spent?

A great deal of time is spent by young people watching television or riding around in automobiles. It is an unfortunate fact that the automobile has made young people more mobile, but it would appear, less literate.

The great men of the world, both past and present, seem to have the reading habit in common; men who have made a great contribution to the world have usually been men who have received inspiration and instruction from reading of other great men.

In some cases, men who have caused great destruction on the earth have been avid readers. Hitler studied the lives of men who have preceded them. Hitler studied Napoleon. Napoleon studied Greek and Roman military tactics.

Dr. Hugh Nibley, renowned historian and linguist, once wrote some thought provoking ideas about the written word. Although we can't quote it exactly, the main idea which Dr. Nibley expressed was this: Science fiction writers, in their wildest imaginings, could not dream up a device so striking as the written word.

Writing can convey ideas, thoughts, even feelings across vast expanses of time and space. Writing, when printed on "Glo Ad" cards or etched in solid stone, has the power to convey ideas, promote activities. What science fiction device could approach writing for sheer imagination? To think that a man who lived thousands of years ago could be making different figures as a stone, or piece of papyrus, convey his thoughts, describe his life, express his feelings, to a group of people in another time period living a completely different life from his.

Think about writing for a minute. A number of figures, on a document we call the Constitution, makes it possible for us to speak our mind without fear, stand up for our rights, in short, be free men. What is the Constitution? It's just words. But these words carry the meaning of freedom for Americans everywhere.

Our Leaders of Youth

We spoke last night with one of the members of the combined chorus of BYU which presented the musical numbers for the final sessions of the 130th Annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

This individual, a convert to the Church, had an opportunity of speaking with some of the general authorities between sessions. The thing that most impressed her was the attitude of those men concerning youth. "Why they would literally do anything in the world to help the youth," she said. Many persons have recently expressed the same feeling to us.

In view of the vast amount of work involved in directing the affairs of an organization as large and diversified as the Church, we think it is highly significant that these men give so much of their time and energies in directly aiding youth. Programs such as the Church-wide fireside and the "Life homes with yourself" posters are indicative of our leaders' interest in youth.

Apart from these organized programs, however, we are impressed by, and grateful for the authorities' individual interest in young people.

As students we should be grateful for the efforts of these men who are recognized not only in the Church, but also in national youth movements, as outstanding leaders of youth.

Television Networks Reject Film on Space

The Race for Space, David I. Wolper's documentary film, denied time on the three major networks as a matter of company policy because the film was not produced by their news department staff, will reach the home screens the week of April 24th, courtesy of Shulton and ninety-five public-spirited independent and network affiliated stations coast to coast.

PRODUCED BY David I. Wolper in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Defense, the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force, National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Ministry of Culture of the U.S.S.R., it contains American and Soviet rocket and space films never before seen outside our Intelligence Service, including first views of the dog-carrying Sputnik II.

The Race for Space for the first time gives the true facts, impartially and objectively, about the race between the U.S.A. and Russia in missile development. General Holger N. Tofroy, featured in the film and Chairman of the World Space Committee, says that every American should see this film.

IT HAS been made a regular part of the curriculum at West Point. Response from the Press has been so tremendous that a newspaper article about it has been read into the Congressional Record. The film won the 1959 San Francisco International Film Festival Documentary Award, and has just been nominated the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for an Academy Award, the first TV film to be so honored.

George L. Schults, President of Shulton, says, "We felt it important that this film be put before the American public at this time. Therefore, despite the networks' refusal to air the program, we have gone to tremendous effort and expense to schedule it."

THROUGH MEETINGS between Frank N. Carpenter, Vice President of Shulton, David Wolper, the producer, and Charles Amory of the Wesley Associates Agency, they have succeeded in putting together a vast not association of independent stations and network affiliations coast to coast who will air this film on prime night time during the week of April 24th in over 93 of the major markets.

Mr. Carpenter is quoted as saying that by virtue of this unique hookup and the tremendous interest and promotional effort which these broadcasting stations will exert, it is expected that the show will be viewed by a greater audience than originally contemplated through a network telecast.

JUDGING by the initial response to the film, educational and civil defense groups who have seen this film, it will have the backing of public-spirited groups all over the country.

The film shows the development of the giant V-2 under Hitler's direction, the capture of Werner von Braun and other German scientists, and the dramatic firings of Sputnik I and Sputnik II, including scenes showing Laika, the space dog, being prepared for his flight.

THE FINALE is the dramatic buildup and launching of our first successful earth satellite, Explorer I, a sequence which ends with the actual films of the tense and agonizing countdown in the blockhouse at Cape Canaveral. There are also probing interviews with Mrs. Robert Goddard, widow of the great rocket pioneer, and General H. N. Tofroy, winner of the Distinguished Service Medal for his successful direction of the Army missile program.

St. Paul Discontinues Annual Calpers Day

(ACP)—Foresters used to call per women. This year, they're going to call per trees, reports the University of Minnesota DAILY.

Calpers is an old tradition at Minnesota. On a designated day, foresters roam St. Paul campus and measure with callipers the upper anatomy of coeds and secretaries.

The decision to abolish Calpers Day this year was made by the university's Student Activities Bureau and School of Forestry representatives.

Feelings ranged, says the DAILY, from general apathy on the part of non-foresters to anger in some forestry circles—and outright relief of coeds who have witnessed past Calpers Days.

One woodsman is quoted as saying, "It looks like creeping paternalism has crept some more."

Dr. Larson Gives View On Poetry

Editor's note: In recent weeks the Universe readers have expressed much interest in the subject of poetry. In response to this, the editor has secured by August 15th the first of a series of articles which may have much to say about the subject. The first, by Dr. Larson, follows.

by Dr. Clinton Larson
Written for the Universe

Those who have been following the debate-by-letter in the Universe on the subject of modern poetry versus its classic symbolic eminence Prof. Flaubert must crave recapitulation.

"MODERN POETRY" is part of the general phenomenon "modern art," which is so only that it is being created our time. Poets are like all artists—they are among the greatest, most well-meaning people.

The modern poet wishes that all people might study his work to get insights into the problems of modern society instead of crying that it because they themselves are quixotic, edgy, self-conscious or because they are afraid to think.

MORMONS particularly about not making the historical error of rejecting new insight because they are sometimes disturbing and difficult to comprehend. As we know, new truth diffuses!

Poetry is the language of the spirit. In the other the word poet is used to describe, for example, a fine painting, a dance, or a musical tune. Moreover, it is the language of Jesus. It is not for any sort of pretense, but the best possible way to communicate truth. Otherwise, Jesus means to convey the gospel.

THERE ARE two kinds of "poems"—a work of art and a religious human bond. Both have eternal qualities, but both can be found in the highest significance of life offers, for the creative the Creator, and the handiwork. Both are "imaginative" and "complete." Both are gentle and wise. Both have been and frequently are, misused, stood.

Both require of those who would appreciate them patience, honesty, meekness, and gentleness. Both require that they be in spirit and are understood by spirit.

The world profoundly needs them, for it gains eternal life because of them. They give peace to the Creator and to the world about them "imaginative" and "complete." But must be recognized for their value if they are to fulfill their creative function.

I hesitate to put words in Prof. Flaubert's mouth, but let me be at the raison d'être for science.

Awake and pray:
The tians dance in the cry-tion;
They lift and rail,
Billowing the motion of men
Never in the passage of dreams
Were they real as now;
They hint the incalculable
Wherever they stream
Whose voice is the white and ermine of sand.

Escape from Hell? Protestants Ponder

by Louis Cassels
United Press International

Is Hell a place of eternal punishment, to which unrepentant sinners are consigned at death, and from which they can never hope to escape?

There are passages in the Bible that seem to say it is, and this view has been incorporated in the traditional teachings of many Christian bodies, including the Catholic Church and most fundamentalist Protestant denominations.

BUT SOME Christians cannot accept the idea that Hell has a one-way door. They believe that God's love for his human children is such that he intends for all of them ultimately to be saved.

Both viewpoints have been under intensive study during the past five years by a special commission of 48 Protestant theologians. The commission was appointed by the United Church of Canada, a denomination created in 1925 by the merger of Canadian Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist Churches. ITS REPORT has been published in a 128-page booklet entitled "Life and Death—A Study of the Christian Hope."

Anyone who turns to this report seeking pat answers will be disappointed. The commission concluded that the Bible does not provide "a Baedeker's guide to the next world" and that no particular doctrine of final judgment can be conclusively proved by Scriptural texts.

ON ONE HAND, it said, Christians "cannot and dare not deny the reality of Hell." Jesus may have been "speaking symbolically" in His parables about the last judgment, but His teachings add up to an unmistakable warning that men face a "final reckoning before God." He made it crystal clear that "sin is a desperately serious matter, and must have dire consequences" for the unrepentant sinner.

Moreover, the Canadian theologians said, the concept of punishment after death is not inconsistent with God's nature as a loving and merciful father.

"SOME FORM of punishment, in the next world if not in this, may be necessary if sinners are to be brought to a realization of what their rebellion has meant to God in the rejection of His love and the frustration of His purpose," the report said.

On the other hand, the commission said, "It is practically impossible for us to think of divine punishment that does not have a redemptive purpose." All that Christ taught about God seems to argue against the notion that He would inflict eternal punishment "simply as a recompense for evil done" by men in their earthly lives, it added.

TAKING ALL of these things into account, the commission asked:

"May we dare to hope that beyond death there is opportunity for repentance leading to salvation?"

In other words, is it possible that Hell is a place where sinners are punished for their own ultimate good, and where they may hope for a second chance after they have been "awakened and corrected?"

THE COMMISSION said there are passages in the New Testament, particularly in St. Paul's letters, which seem to support such a view. And it is theologically compatible with the "total revelation of God's eternal purpose seen in the Christ who suffered, died and rose again for us."

Ranks Swell as Nominations Roll in

Nominations for Bibler campus characters rolled in up to the deadline yesterday, swelling the ranks of Bibler Bounce candidates for Saturday's dance.

LATEST RUNNING mates for honors are Ted Ridenhour and B. Delworth Gardner, for Professor Snarf. Ridenhour already has one strike against him—he's a freshman English teacher, and what's more, he's got an obvious Southern accent. Gardner, a professor in the Economics Dept., takes great strides in protection and preservation of "status quo."

Also in the race for Snarf title are J. J. Keeler alias (J. J. Keeler), Steve Covey and Jed Richardson. Keeler claims he is the "meanest man on campus," and some of his students think he lives up to his name. Keeler was nominated by 112 signers. Richardson even "growls" at his pupils and gives impossible assignments, plus having his students buy books that are not found in the campus bookstore. According to the ballot, Covey "brings out the inner self," and while the soul is left naked with all defenses down, frustration takes hold.

"LUSH" candidates total seven in the race for the ideal female, Worthy and Professor Snarf's main interest. Sally Steimle, rated an top student in "men's affairs" by her friends, among other numerous qualifications, "Others are for you to find out," they said.

Slimeaceous Gloria Jensen, in competition for the Louise title has "fascinating eyes," and cute Jackie Cole "luscious from head to toe," say avid fans.

A gal who enjoys providing the "contrast" in all male classes is cute Jerri Smith, who audits a class in livestock judging. She is one of three girls in the class which is made up mostly of men.

Jerri Smith . . . "All male classes are good for the ego!"

WORTHAL candidate Gary Dunn has been nominated as the exceptional student of football and women. And ideal places for Gary to observe female specimen include the Grant library, Cougarrest, Family Living Center lobby, etc., etc., etc.

Another "worthless" Worthy is David Summers, a senior in Industrial Management who spends more time in the chow line than in class studying.

The studentbody will have a chance to vote on "broad outstanding in their field," the college boy most noted for "enduring stupidity," and fang-toothed professors most noted for "imposing sadistic treatment on their students."

ALL CANDIDATES will be presented to the studentbody Friday's assembly, and are asked to be present before or by 1 a.m. on the front row of green seats at Smith Fieldhouse. Dress is mandatory, and candidates may use their own discretion. Lush candidates may dress to look "luscious" and Worthals to look worthless, and Snarfs to look Snarfier.

MEN, RENT YOUR FORMAL OUTFIT NOW!

Now's the perfect time to get that complete outfit measured up and put away for your big Prom night. At Clark's the "whole show" including a black tux or dinner jacket and slacks along with shirt, tie, cummerbund, studs and links and handkerchief costs just $8.50. That's rental, of course.

... OR MAYBE YOU'D BE WISE TO BUY

Many "know their way around" boys are electing to purchase. At Clark's your own outfit (Jacket and Slacks) costs as little as $43.95, and you can pay for it 1/6 monthly. That's only $7.50 per month. So you see, it could cost you less to buy if you attend five or six formals in your college career. Makes sense, doesn't it?

CHICK HEARN, nationally known sports broadcaster who works out of the West Coast, is one of the busiest men in the profession.

Besides being director of sports at NBC-TV in Hollywood, Chick holds the same position with CBS radio in film-land.

What do these two jobs entail? Chick does the play by play on any sports event which originates on the West Coast and is televised or broadcast coast to coast regionally on NBC-TV or CBS radio. These broadcast hookups deal mainly with football, basketball, and golf.

THE CONGENIAL sportscaster calls the action of the University of Southern California basketball games, and described the USC-Utah NCAA regional playoff game to the southern California audience when the two teams tangled in the BYU Fieldhouse last month.

Besides all his play by play broadcasting he does a daily sports show on NBC-TV.

How did Chick get started in this field? It was the same way many sportscasters have gotten started in the field—accidentally. While in the Army his outfit had a baseball team in a service baseball league, and one day when the team needed an announcer, he decided to give broadcasting a try.

After he got out of the Army, Chick had a good paying job, but decided to quit to get started as a sportscaster at a 250 watt station. "My wife just about divorced me when I changed jobs," Chick said jokingly.

"I STARTED out broadcasting high school sports events and selling advertising for the station," Chick said.

According to Chick, his most thrilling broadcast was the Oregon-Ohio State Rose Bowl game a couple years ago, which was transmitted coast to coast.

When asked what he thought of the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse, Chick responded with "It reminds me of Bradley back East. It's (the BYU fieldhouse) a typical mid-western fieldhouse."

THE BYU GYMNASICS team will host the Intermountain AAU gymnastics meet April 21.

In season competition, the men of Rudy Moe won one and lost seven, their lone victory being over Denver. This is the second year of competition for the BYU team and they ended this season in the fourth spot in conference play.

Some of the events will be free exercise, trampoline, side horse, parallel bars, flying ring, tumbling, high bar, long horse, still rings, and rope climb.

The Cougars are pinning their hopes on Jay Markham, Lynn Bjorkman, LeMoynes DuPaix, Lonnie Lambson, Ted Potter, and Steve Pratt. When it comes to all around competition, Pratt is rated on top.

BASKETBALL COACH STAN WATTS is looking ahead to next season. The Cat mentor figures the addition of members of this season's frosh club and some junior college transfers will strengthen the team, along with the addition of Timo Lampen and Jack Mannon.

Sox Lack Sock; Coach Hoping for Best

by Scott Ballie
United Press International
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — The Boston Red Sox played 550 ball after Manager Bill Jurgens took over the club last July 4 and chances are he'd be tickled if the team could play at that pace for the entire 1960 season.

As they shape up today, however, the Sox conceivably could wind up in the American League cellar. They lack punch, are weak behind the plate and need more pitching.

"This is a good young club which must develop," Jurgens says. "It may be ready or the players still may be a year away from reaching their potential."

THE BIGGEST problems are in right and left fields. Jackie Jensen left a gaping hole in right when he decided to quit baseball. The blond slugger had led the American League in runs batted in for the second straight time last year, and was voted the most valuable player in 1958.

Aging and aching Ted Williams is a problem in left field. The great "thumper" checked into camp complaining that a pinched nerve in his neck, which rattled his batting average last year, still bothered him.

Ted has hit well in recent games and Jurgens lists him and Bobby Thomson as his platoon for left field.

"WE DON'T know how much the loss of Jensen will affect us," Jurgens says. "Maybe he didn't have the batting average of a Willie Mays but he could do everything just as well. We're counting on Williams to be in left field but I don't know when he will be ready to start."

Ted, who didn't appear in the Red Sox batting order last year until May 17, would split the berth with Thompson, acquired in a winter deal with the Chicago Cubs.

Garry Geiger, La Clinton and Marty Keough, a long-time blossoming bonus player, all are expected to get shots at Jensen's old post. Geiger, who is about to be discharged from the Army, can hit left-handers but Jurgens wonders if the right-handed batting Clinton can do the same.

THERE SEEMS to be no problem in center field where Gene Stephens, who batted .278 in 1959, was the regular there May 1 when he broke his leg. Then he was out of action June 15.

Things appear solid around infield with huge Ron Jackson, first base, Pete Runnels at second, Don Buddin at shortstop, reliable Frank Malone at third.

Jackson, who stands six seven inches, has been taking his batting instruction from Runnels and might be the man could replace Jensen's anasies.

"WE DON'T know how he is, but he may do the Jurgens says of the big guy was obtained from the Chicago White Sox. Jackson must be that he is ready and intense attack around.

Runnels, usually a high age hitter, is set at second and could move over base if Jackson failed.

Referee Marciano Calls Draw In Kerwin, Fullmer Boxing Bout

Sam Jones, the Giants' 21-game winner, was blasted for seven runs in the Dodgers' victory, including homers by Wally Moon and John Roseboro and six walks. Willie McCovey's three-run homer led the Giants' futile counter-attack.

THE BOUT was spirited from start to finish. Kerwin took an early advantage by hooking smartly to the head and dropping in right crosses, but Fuller scored better in the later rounds when he waited for Kerwin to lead and then counter-punched.

Four More Join Race for 'Little Man'

Four more nominees for Worthal, the "little man" on campus, are Bob Clark, Don Wright, Ducey Cole and Gary Hopkinson.

The "undersized" on Clark's ballot are confident that the vast quantity of names in his "little black book" would exceed the number of names in Worthal's collection.

FRIENDS SAY Don Wright is the only guy on campus who takes 12 hours and 12 classes—also recreation. He got an F in Forum Assembly last quarter, and should receive special recognition for his 0.0 grade point average.

Ducey Call, nominated for his truly "Worthalish" qualities is a G.M.O.C. (grubbiest man on campus). He is the only man on campus with a straight "I" (incomplete) average, and is probably the only man in the history of Helaman Halls to lock himself out of his room eight days in a row. Ducey has a madness for women but every girl of his acquaintance says: "To know Ducey Call is to Biraaght!"

IS THERE a person on campus who cuts more classes and takes a heavier load of female anatomy classes than Gary Hopkinson? His excuse for chasing pretty girls is his camera—he's a part-time photographer for BYU publications, and can often be seen dashing after shapely shapes with his equipment rat-ting in the wind, with film holders clenched between his teeth.

Others in the running are Diane Foster, the "loveable lady" at Knight-Mangum cafeteria nominated by 92 votes. Checking the meal tickets is a neat setup to Diane, who memorizes all the boys' numbers.

COMPETING for Worthal are Kay Frost who studies hard at getting dates with potential Louise Lushes, Jess Green, who takes all evening classes to avoid interference with spring activities such as water skiing, and Tom Miller who mixes his potential more than any one on campus. He's still trying to find it, along with Dick Charles, another Worthal candidate.

Richard Stonebour is cited as a perfect example, always mixing up burning fluids in chemistry class that he can't put out.

A competitor for the title of Miss Lush is Ailela Billings, who attracts males of all species. Even the bees swarm to her like flowers.

IT TAKES courage to challenge pretty Kay Haggard in any contest based on good looks and she's equipped to challenge one, say friends who signal petition.

Friends view Pat Middleton, "more woman than the average man can handle." She takes advantage of her Southern accent and frustrates roommates by living half the BYU male relation over for Southern chicken.

Bob Clark . . . Has them all down in black n' white.

Don Wright . . . It's all in knowing how to look studious.

Ducey Call . . . Has a one track mind: Women.

Gary Hopkinson . . . Major in female anatomy.

Ailela Billings . . . She's so sweet even the bees like her.

Pat Middleton . . . Bait the trap with food and sweet talk.

Diaworth Gardner . . . Stride in 'status quo' pride.

On Campus Count Easy, Difficult Off

The 1960 census of population and housing has had its effect at Brigham Young University along with the rest of the nation.

THE CENSUS, which began last Friday morning, has 160,000 enumerators throughout the United States visiting every dwelling unit.

At BYU the census takers found it quite easy for those students living on campus to be counted, stated Lester Searle, Provo census supervisor.

However, those students living off-campus have posed quite a problem.

SEARLE SAID that one day he counted the dwellings in a Provo block and got 21. The next day one of his 20 enumerators canvassed the same block and came up with 12 residences. The miscount was caused by basement apartments and back entrances.

Searle said that college students are counted where they go to school and not from their home town.

Provo City has been divided into two sections and Evan Judd is the other supervisor over the town.

THE CENSUS TAKER will leave a Census Household Questionnaire at every fourth household which contains additional questions covering population and housing characteristics which are being asked of a 25 per cent sample of the population. Householders are requested to fill out the household questionnaire and mail it within three days to the local census district office. The district office for Utah, Salt Lake and Tooele Counties is in Salt Lake City. J. Fred Pingree is the district supervisor.

Pingree says that all information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law. It is used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages and percentages. The information about individuals cannot be examined by anyone other than census employees, who are sworn to secrecy, and thus cannot be used for investigation, taxation or regulation.
